Fall 2010

Dear Parent/Guardian:

We represent the legal profession in King County, and we want your student to have the greatest opportunity possible to go to college and then on to law school.

Law school is the gateway to some of our community's most exciting and rewarding careers. We need more—many more!—law students of various backgrounds and ethnicities to go on to become judges and attorneys who bring their unique knowledge and experience to bear on issues of extreme importance to all of us.

We hope that your child will apply to attend our Future of the Law Institute on Friday and Saturday, November 19th and November 20th, at the Seattle University and University of Washington Law Schools. If your student is selected, we hope you will mark it on your calendar and that you will plan to attend a special workshop we've planned for parents and guardians. We will focus on the process of applying to college and obtaining the funds needed to go to college.

These are the first stages of getting on the road to law school, or whatever career your young person wants to aim for. The rest of the parent workshop will be about opportunities for minorities in law school and minorities in the law profession, and about the mentor program your student will participate in during the year (see the attached Mentor Program Q&A sheet for more information on this opportunity).

If you have questions about the Future of the Law Institute, we hope you will call Chris Cates at (206) 267-7034, or email him at chrisc@kcba.org.

Sincerely,

Eric Hougan
Parent Workshop Facilitator
Future of the Law Institute

The Future of the Law Institute (FLI) Mentor Program

Frequently Asked Questions

Q: Who are FLI mentors?

A: FLI mentors are local attorneys, judges, law students and paralegals committed to increasing ethnic minority representation in the legal profession. FLI mentors want to share resources and offer practical advice on pursuing a career in law with your child.

Q: What does participating in the FLI mentor program require from you and your child?

A: Your child will be placed in a group of students from his/her school that will meet with a team of mentors 3-4 times over the school year.

The first meeting takes place at the FLI Two-Day Institute when the group meets and eats lunch with their mentors. You will meet your child's mentors as well, if you attend the Two-Day Institute.

The second and third meetings will take place in January- March. Students may visit their mentors' law firm, law school, or place of work.

The fourth meeting is an end of year celebration barbecue and awards ceremony in May with all FLI participants, parents, teachers, and mentors invited to celebrate.

- Note – participation in the FLI Mentor Program requires your child to miss part or all of a minimum of three days of school between November 19th and the end of the academic year.

FLI staff will work with your child's school to arrange dismissals from class to attend mentor meetings. However, we rely on you to make sure your child participates in the mentor program. If your child is accepted into FLI and agrees to participate in the mentor program, he/she is expected to attend all meetings to the best of his/her ability.

Q: What will my child get out of the FLI mentor program?

A: Your child will have the opportunity to see first-hand what a career in law can be like, and get advice on what it takes to get there from dedicated mentors. Students who participate in FLI may be eligible for $500 college scholarships and $1,000 law school scholarships. Finally, students fully participating in the mentor program may be eligible for summer internship opportunities with judges and law firms.

Q: How are FLI mentors selected?

A: All FLI mentors must go through an application process to determine their commitment to the program, and ability to provide a positive experience for your child. Many FLI mentors are past recipients of Diversity Scholarships from the King County Bar Foundation, and many others are members of local Minority Bar Associations, like the Asian Bar Association of Washington and the Loren Miller Bar Association (African American Bar).

Q: How does FLI enforce safety in the mentor program?

A: FLI's mentor program uses a "cluster" system to ensure that students and mentors are always together in groups when participating in mentor program events. Additionally, a chaperone from your child's school will attend the mentor events with students. Mentors and students wishing to pursue individualized e-mail/phone mentoring or meetings outside of the sanctioned group events must make arrangements with parents, the Future of the Law Institute, and school officials. All FLI mentors attend a training program that includes guidelines for mentoring and adherence to the law.
